Charles has managed major capital projects and has facilitated teambuilding and alignment for small and large international teams over the past 30 years.

“Teambuilding and alignment gets the heart of a critical element of organizational leadership, namely FOCUS.”

Companies are facing growing challenges for increased performance, people resources and sustainable business results and profitability. We are finding that misalignment is the greatest obstacle and can be costing you as much as 15% of your gross revenue and more.

Can you image what stopping only a fraction of this bleeding would do for you and your bottom line and shareholder value?

Our teambuilding and alignment programs have been successfully implemented with small management teams to large EPC development teams of over 160 participants.

Teambuilding and alignment are about stimulating movement from where you are now to where you want to be. It evolves around the Principle of Alignment and that principle provides the template for the systematic process that your resources, projects or organizations can utilize to overcome obstacles and challenges and thereby enhance team focus on the achievement of greater goals and successes.

Attend this interactive session and learn how you can achieve greater project success through understanding and implementing The 3 Critical Success Factors in Teambuilding and Alignment for Results.
